Picked Up Here and There.

The debutantes for the coming winter have been much discussed, and one of the most interesting bits of news gleaned about the afternoon tea Debutantes. tables is the fact that Miss Alice Reid Jones, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archer Jones, will make her initial bow to Richmond society at a beautiful ball given on the Friday night following Thanksgiving. All sorts of plans are being made for the other buds of the season. One pretty girl is to be introduced at a large afternoon and evening reception given at a well known club, and still another will have a quaint, old-fashioned ball, with favors brought from the far east for the cotillon, says the Richmond Times-Dispatch. There will be teas and luncheons and dinners galore to fill the days between the fall season and the real formal presentations to the season's debutantes at the first Monday german in December. For, of course, a debutante is not a debutante unless she has actually danced at the Richmond german her first winter out.
The air is rife with discussion as to the charm and attraction of the various girls coming out this winter, and one awaits with interest the formal announcement of their debut.

Handbags grow lovelier and more numerous all the while. These attractive accessories are made Revival of the of almost every conceivable material and Reticule. in many colors, and are very gay and effective bits of autumn wardrobe.

Not one man you have but many, matching hat or dress or wrap, or in direct contrast, but whether your choice be one of beads, silk, leather, velvet, ribbon or crochet, it must be gay in color, with a jauntyness that cannot be mistaken. No housewifery.
Among those present were Miss Alice Fowler, Miss Sara Farr, Miss Helen Shaw, Miss Phoebe Ludlow, Miss Lucy Anderson, Miss Mabel Slagle, Miss

I hear rumors of a wonderful bazaar that is to be given in aid of a great war chest at one of Indian Bazaar the big buildings in London hitherto connected with great theatrical enterprises, writes the author of Lady Mary's Gossip in the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times. It is to take the form of an Indian bazaar with a reproduction as closely approaching the "real thing" as possible—in fact, there is to be a reproduction of an Indian street, with the houses and shops and merchandise and pavement, sellers and buyers, complete. There are to be Indian dancers, fakirs, storytellers, snake charmers and fortune tellers, also an Indian restaurant. The whole thing is to be most gorgeously conceived and carried out and the cost will be almost nominal, for all the great potentates and princes of the empire have promised to lend and give the most marvelous supply of articles that will render the show a vision of beauty as well as of perfect detail. It is said that there has been a good deal of feeling lately among the Indian troops, because they have been withdrawn from the western front, and the idea of this bazaar is to give the enormous number of Indian subjects at present in England an idea that they, too, are being specially represented among the philanthropic war works that are flooding the market. At any rate, although as yet the idea has a somewhat nebulous form, there is no doubt that before the autumn is over it will materialize and bring about a very superb fixture for a few weeks of the early winter.

For fashionable folk are perhaps less plentiful in the usual haunts of wartime gayeties than they were Londoners Dine on last month, Champagne and Grouse. but when I was dining at Ciro's a night or two ago, says the same writer in the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times, there was a few fine folk in the most frivolous looking frocks, accompanied by well set-up young men in ordinary evening clothes. The fact that several of them hailed considerably in their walk, that two or three of them were minus a right or left arm, and that a large majority had bandaged limbs or heads, gave the only reminder that there is "something doing" on the other side of the channel. Although only old gentlemen and sporting young ladies are shooting grouse this season, there seems to be no reasonable objection to eating and enjoying this pleasant game now that "the glorious twelfth" has come and gone. As I looked round the big room where tables encircle the dancing space, I noticed that most of the diners were talking together and shilling a brace comfortably, and that food champagne was the general accompaniment to the evening meal—all of which goes to prove that wartime "economy" has not set in with particular virulence as far as the diet of London's smart set is concerned.

Along with all the other disciplinary methods which the women of Seattle took up this past Fashionable Hotels Main- summer, tain Reducing Menus. and are continuing this fall, for the betterment of mind and body, were certain new ways by which to reduce and produce flesh, with a decided preference for the ways of reduction.

Those preferring a sylph-like form of beauty have been following for several months the rules and regulations of a certain book, not long out of the hands of the publishers, with treatises on reduction by proper food. So successful have the methods been with the numberous fair women of this city that the flesh-reducing fad has become almost a fever, says the Seattle, Wash. Times.
If you see mysterious little groups at parties, confidentially talking together and curiously getting the better, become an eavesdropper, you may perhaps hear snatches of conversation like this: "Oh, do you really think it will help me to get thin?" "How many pounds did you lose?" "Do I really have to give up all the good things to eat at parties?" "How long do I have to keep it up?" and hundreds of other questions, all asked breathlessly and in between reassurances of good results.
Seriously, there is a perceptible difference in the weight of a good many women in this town at present. Those reducing are stoically living a life of rules, taking exercise, riding less and walking more, and in consequence never felt better in their lives.

The hotels and several of the clubs are helping the women, too, for in many instances they are featuring the different dishes advised. So if someone asks you soon after a greeting, "How much do you weigh?" don't be offended; if you have lost a few pounds or gained, you are in the good graces, and ## Shower for Bride-elect.

A shower was given Miss Marie Newman by her friends at the home of Miss Kathryn Smalley, Monroe street, Wednesday evening, September 27.
Among those present were Miss Alice

this day necessary and they have designated Monday as the official washday of the village.

The village operates an electric light plant, but only at night. The women wanted day power to operate electric wash machines and petitioned the village board, which agreed to furnish power Mondays only.

The patio was protected with a gay striped awning, and here, at a flower-studded altar, all the appointments being in pink, they were pronounced Wedding. man and wife, says a writer in the Los Angeles Tribune in describing a wedding there last week.

The house and gardens had been brilliantly illuminated with rose-shaded lights, but as the ceremony commenced every light went out and only the glimmer of waxen candles, set in tall silver sconces, shed their glow over the scene.

Chrysanthemums in shades of pink were artistically used in the decoration of the living room and sun room, while in the dining room a rose motif, with Cecile Brunner buds and lilies of the valley, was tastefully used.

The bride was prettily attired in a lovely gown of gracefully draped white satin and lace, the duchess lace used having been worn by her mother at her own wedding, while a wreath of orange blossoms caught her veil in place, and a shower of lilies of the valley completed the pretty picture.

The two attendants, matron of honor and bridesmaid, wore dainty frocks of pale rose chausson embroidered in gold and silver trimming being tastefully combined on the bodices, and their flowers were arm bouquets of Cecile Brunner buds.

Mildred Peck, Miss Cecile Amies, Miss Irene Wade, Miss Bessie Mullen, Miss Loretta Hull, Miss Bess Letter, Mrs.
Annie Beall, Mrs. William A. Yates, Miss Marie Nesbitt, Miss Grace Crossley and Miss Mildred Draney.

The house was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and autumn leaves.
Bouquets were rendered by Misses Cecile Amies and Mildred Draney, after which a buffet supper was served.

Merrill-Hurst Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Florence Southgate Hurst of this city and Mr.
Edward Dearborn Merrill of Seattle, Wash., took place September 29, at 7 o'clock in the evening, at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs.
Samuel A. Merrill, Des Moines, Iowa.

The marriage was solemnized there owing to a recent death in the home of the bride, and also because Des Moines, being the half-way point between Seattle and the District of Columbia, was a more convenient meeting point for the relatives and friends of the bride couple.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs.
Keturah Moss Hurst of this city and the late Gen. Harris Erill Hurst. She is the granddaughter of the late Judge David Wiley Hurst of the supreme court of Mississippi and the late Judge James Malcolm Smiley, also of Mississippi.

Mr. Merrill is a Cornell man and also
